CAPPER URGES CUT IN RATES FOR FARMERS

Impossible for Agriculturists to Advance by Getting Pre-War Prices and Paying High Rail Costs

"Excessive Freight Rates Injuring Farmers," He Declares, Saying He is Not Hostile to Roads

Washington, Jun. 24. — Substantial reduction in transportation cost for the relief of the farmer was urged in the senate today by Senator Capper, Republican, Kansas, chairman of the agricultural bloc, in advocating repeal of parts of the transportation act to allow lower freight

Asserting that he was "in no sense hostile to railroads" Mr. Capper insisted that "excessive freight rates are injuring the farmer and stockman and have been injuring him for more than three years."

Pointing out that the "total expense of all the roads in 1977 amounted to $200,000,000, the largest amount in the history of the state," the speaker said that the "total expense of all the roads in 1978 is expected to be $250,000,000, the largest amount in the history of the state."

"the military of the roads," he said, "is no permanent need, for the responsibility for our system of rail transport under section 11-A of the transportation act" which "transmits us an arbitrary rule for the Interstate Commerce commission to follow, based upon the production of aggregate net railway operating income."

Close Together.

A message to an answer from a place on the other side of the world in less than two minutes; a communication from Missouri to Japan and back, as the liner ran, 14,000 miles in 105 seconds, in the latest achievement of radio and the telephone. Truly modern invention and science are annihilating distances and bringing the ends of the earth closer. Thus is progress making remoteness of nations a myth.—[Washington Post.]

Reading for the First Star.

Trade with Russia steadily increases. After the great trade deal of last month, has come the shipping agreement which has been signed between the Russian government and important British, Canadian and Dutch companies, including the Canadian Line, for passenger traffic with Russia. Now that it is evident that trade can and will grow up with Russia, surely it is time that we accorded de jure recognition and establish a proper consular service in the Russian ports.—[London Spectator.]

Care May Save Young Lives.

A very timely warning is sent forth by the registrar of motor vehicles, Frank A. Goodwin, calling for the exercise of special caution in this season of slippery roadways. The advice which he offers has wide pertinence in its application; it concerns not only the children, who now for the first time this winter are enjoying the privilege of coasting down hill on their sleds, but the older folk who drive their auto along the level roadways at the base.—[Boston Post.]

Teeth Do Audited.

The assertion of the secretary to the board of dental examiners of Massachusetts that there are 500 fake and quack dentists in the state indicates that there ought to be a new law with teeth in it.—[Boston Globe.]

Wins in Highway Fight.

Madison Town and County Awarded $1,725 for Damages by Injunction. In June, 1932, James Pilbeam, a resident of the town and county of Madison, secured an injunction restraining town and county from building a portion of the Solville-Oriskany Falls gorge highway, then under construction. The injunction was subsequently vacated by Justice Fithell, and his decision affirmed by the appellate court, after which action was begun by the supervisors and town board to recover damages caused by delaying the work. The assessment of damages came before Justice Kelleys at Norwich in October, and the damages were fixed by him at $1,725, which Pilbeam and his sureties must pay. The decision is of importance in several other counties of the state in which similar proceedings are pending.

NEW ENGLAND GOVERNMENT.

The ascendancy of the Labor party in Great Britain, along with the elevation of one of its greatest leaders to the premiership, is unquestionably the most notable of political events of the new year, in that it is the first instance in which a Labor leader has reached such prominence in any leading country of the world. In Russia, it is true, Lenin came to the head of a socialist government, but Russia was and is great only in name, and such a government as that of Lenin is a mere shadow of the power of the British government. In the United States, the Labor party has not yet reached the point of ascendancy, but it is not far from it. The Labor party in the United States is a vast empire, surpassing any other nation in the world, and one which has, despite what a United States newspaper may say, a genuine loyalty to the ruling house.

That Body of Yours

By James W. Berlin, M.D.

ARE YOU PROUD OF YOUR BODY?

You have been at the bathing beach and have had the opportunity of seeing the human body just as it is, hidden only in part by the bathing suit. You have seen the strong, rugged bodies of the men, and the shapely beauty of the women. As you looked at them you have made a mental picture of yourself as compared with them. You were not as strong looking as some, nor yet as weak as others. If a woman, you have seen some whom you admitted to yourself were more beautifully built than you. You have seen others who were less shapely.

What is my point?

That strong men, and the shapely women, have attained their physical beauty, either by inheritance, or by the simple care and thought about the body. There was a time in the world's history when strength and beauty of body were actually worshipped. To the Christian man the body is the temple of the soul. I sometimes think that he has forgotten that, when I see the manner in which he neglects his body.

How is a strong and beautiful body attained?

The first need is good, hygienic health. That tends to actually live. All that is necessary to attain health is to use the same sense that you use in other things. Health is obtained and retained by the simple eating of food, and the proper using up of same by your body.

How?

By exercise of work. Nothing can be stronger. And to obtain strength and beauty in addition to health, you add to your daily work, simple all round exercise that will develop all parts of the body.

You are lying in bed in the morning.

You do this the thought of taking that first morning exercise. Jump out of bed and try it. One minute after you start you will be wide awake, you will feel the reaction throughout your entire body. Will be invigorated, putting yourself on the "back" to which you have neglected "back" in you to do this little bit of exercise.

TO FIGHT SMITH'S TAX CUT.

Up-State Farmers Want Reduction On Property Instead of Income.

Albany, Jan. 21. — Farmers throughout the state will oppose Governor Smith's recommendation for a 25 per cent reduction in the state income tax, according to H. C. McKenzie of Walton, director of research and taxation for the American Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. McKenzie appeared at the capital today to place his views before the Republican conference on taxation.

"The farmers in New York state feel that the taxation system needs amending," he said. "There is only one elastic element in the New York tax system, and that is the tax on tangible property, ordinarily spoken of as the mill tax. The result is that when there is an increase in the expenditures of state government, the only state tax rate that is changed is the mill rate on tangible property, which last year was increased from $5.29 per thousand dollars to $5.69. This makes the increase on this form of property in the state about $12,000,000, while there is at least twice as much intangible property that did not have to assist in taking up the additional load."

"Heretofore when there was a chance to reduce taxation, the mill tax on tangible property was reduced or entirely taken off. This time, it is proposed to leave tangible property laden with the additional burden of $12,000,000 and on by the last raise in the mill tax and make the reduction in the income tax."

"The farmers do not purpose to allow further unbalancing of the tax burden."

SECOND PRIZE ESSAY

In High School Contest on the Subject, Oneonta's Need of a Chamber of Commerce.

Why should Oneonta have a Chamber of Commerce? What has the Chamber of Commerce done in the past three years? These are the questions everyone is asking every day. By many the importance of this civic association is not realized and its purpose is unknown. The purpose of the Oneonta Chamber of Commerce is to make this city a better, bigger, and busier Oneonta.

During the past three years the Chamber of Commerce has worked hard to make Oneonta a better city. How many citizens of Oneonta do not appreciate the value of having the street repaved and of having the garbage trucks removed? The Chamber of Commerce was back of this movement as well as the project to pave the Church and Center streets. Even the children of this city have seen the results of the labor of the Chamber of Commerce. They now enjoy better park and playground facilities which have been brought about by this organization. It conducted on Arbor Day the planting of thousands of trees on the city water works shed; it encouraged residential tree planting by holding several meetings which were addressed by landscape architects; it tried to bring about the passage of the zoning ordinance; it helped promote a clean-up week every spring. In short, in every way possible, it has tried to instill a spirit of pride and improvement in our city.

As for making Oneonta a bigger city, it has done much. The Chamber of Commerce has widely advertised this community by means of pamphlets of facts about Oneonta, automobile route cards, city maps, the use of slogans on business letters, and through the cooperation of local traveling men. The Chamber of Commerce has brought to Oneonta the conventions of many associations, thus making Oneonta better known. One of its most important functions is to assist in bringing new industries and business concerns to Oneonta. In the past three years it has done a great deal of this work. It has also established a free employment bureau of which service many have taken advantage.

The Chamber of Commerce has worked diligently to make Oneonta a busier city. In all its work to make it better and bigger it has never forgotten the third part of its purpose for it knows that a busy city is a progressive city. When it helped new industries to locate here, the Chamber of Commerce realized that their presence, beside making the city larger, would also make it busier. In many other ways, too numerous to mention, it has tried to create more employment and better business for the citizens of Oneonta.

When the tremendous benefit which the Chamber of Commerce has been to Oneonta has been realized, and when all personal prejudices have been put aside, does not the Chamber of Commerce become indispensable? Who would carry on this work if there were no Chamber of Commerce? A prominent man of a nearby city once said, "Show me a city without a Chamber of Commerce and I will show you a city that is dead."

THE GREAT EARTHQUAKE

Frederic B. Lynch Talks Interestingly to Rotarians of His Experiences in Japan During Tremendous Disaster.

Members of Oneonta Rotary club present at the weekly luncheon yesterday were privileged to hear a graphic description of the great Japanese earthquake on September 1 last which took a toll of hundreds of thousands of lives and practically wiped out the cities of Yokohama and Tokio, the speaker being Frederic B. Lynch, who as the Tokio representative of the International Banking corporation was in Tokio on the fateful day and narrowly escaped with his life.

Mr. Lynch told of the frightful destruction wrought in Yokohama where practically every building was wrecked and the debris obliterated by the flames which soon followed. The structure in which a branch office of his company was located was demolished and many of the workers lost their lives.

The quake did not do so much damage in Tokio but the fires which started almost simultaneously, all over the city caused terrific loss of lives and property. Only those buildings which had been recently built of reinforced concrete and in accordance with western engineering ideas were left standing. The building in which he was working swayed back and forth like a leaf in a storm but did not go down and Mr. Lynch was uninjured.

Mr. Lynch spoke in a charming conversational manner and his description of the disaster was so vivid that few will ever forget it.

The luncheon was characterized by unusual "pop." The presentation of a brown derby to "Chuck" Vandenboom, by "Fred" VanWick, caused considerable merriment and further enjoyment was had by the singing of several songs all referring unmistakably to a recent important incident in the life of "Bill" Lynn.

Recent Case.
"Let me kiss those tears away," pleaded Gladys Gaston, when his sweet lady kept dabbing at her twinkly eyes with her little handkerchief.

She fell into his arms. He was busy for the next few minutes. And yet the tears flowed on.

"Can nothing stop them?" googled Gladys.

"No," she murmured, "it is my fear. But go on with the treatment—my Navy."

Accused

Myrtle Atkinson (above), 31, of Massillon, O., is held in Philadelphia on the charge of being implicated in the murder of a policeman in the Ohio city three years ago. She denies all charges and says she will go back and fight.

Still Taking Evidence Yesterday.

Still another day was in part devoted to taking evidence in the divorce action instituted by Robert J. VanDyke against his wife, Anna O. VanDyke, which had had two previous hearings before Justice Kellogg at chambers here. The evidence is not yet completed, but it is hoped that it will be finished on Saturday next, to which date the hearing was yesterday afternoon adjourned. Claude V. Smith is appearing for the plaintiff and Surrogate S. H. Close for the defendant.

Births.

Born, January 24, at the Fox Memorial hospital, to Mr. and Mrs. Warren B. Jones of Baker street, a 7½-pound daughter.

5 Operations—15 years suffering with constipation—Kellogg's Bran resistant health

Dr. Kellogg's case is typical of thousands of others. He found permanent relief from constipation in Kellogg's Bran because it is ALL bran. Nothing but ALL bran can be 100 per cent effective. Read what he says:

Dear Sir:

I have been afflicted with constipation for 15 years. I have been to four different hospitals and submitted to five different operations that were the result of constipation. I was getting so bad that every week I ate seven or eight stomachs. Two months ago I was advised to eat your Kellogg's Bran. I tried it, and in a few days I was feeling better. From that day on I have never taken a physic. My stomach does not even get more and my bowels are regular. Two other persons who were suffering from constipation, one of whom is a woman, are now getting better. It is guaranteed to bring results, or your money will return your money.

You will like the delicious taste of Kellogg's Bran. It is different from ordinary bran which is unpalatable. But Kellogg's Bran with milk or cream. Sprinkle it over other cereals. Cook it with hot cereals. Try it in the recipes given on the package.

Kellogg's Bran, cooked and seasoned, is served by leading hotels and clubs in individual packages. Made in Battle Creek. Sold by all grocers.

Jury Gave Youth Mercy, But Trickery of Legal Phrase Gives Him Death

By Alexander Herman.
(NEA Service Staff Writer.)

Trenton, N. J., Jan. 23.—The trick of words—they made a father's testimony unwittingly convict his son of murder.

They made a jury sentence him to death, when it wanted to give him a more merciful punishment.

And now Arnold Anderson, 26, sits gloomily in his cell in the Death House of the New Jersey State prison wondering what further trick words will play him.

For the Board of Pardons has his case under consideration. Its recommendation can save him from death in February. But the young prisoner is not hopeful.

There has been too many a slip for him to twist the thought and the word.

Meanwhile his father, a tailor in Brooklyn, N. Y., tries to keep busy at his work. He has become deathly quiet. He no longer speaks much to his workers. He just works on, and on—to keep busy.

His heart is heavy, and his soul is scared.

Not only does he have to bear the anguish of knowing that it is his boy who may go to the chair, but he has to bear the torments of the thought that his testimony helped convict him.

A Drug Addict at Twelve.

At the trial he was asked if his boy had told him that he had shot the victim, with whose murder he had been charged. The father thought that he had been asked if young Anderson had told him that he had told the police that he had done it.

And he answered—"Yes."

For he was ready to go on and explain that his son had a weakness for assuming the guilt of others. He was ready to tell how his boy had confessed to a crime he hadn't committed, the conviction of which would have meant eight or more years in Sing Sing. The authorities that time discovered the deceit, however, and saved him.

But this time, in the court room in Jersey City, the father never got the chance to explain. His answer had already convinced the jury, for young Anderson became a drug addict when

ARNOLD ANDERSON, "VICTIM OF WORDS," WHO'S FACING DEATH IN ELECTRIC CHAIR. INSET, HIS FATHER AND MOTHER.

Anderson's record was bad. According to his father, young Anderson became a drug addict when he was 12 years old! "Drug mongers who plied their trade among school children started him on the habit!"

"But I found out about this only since the last trial began," his father said sorrowfully.

It was the beginning of a long line of transgressions of the law that culminated in the conviction for shooting Harry C. Moore, a Jersey City real estate operator, who intercepted Anderson while he was leaving Moore's home on August 8 last.

"In 1905," says Will Weiss, who together with George F. Cutler, defended Anderson in his last case, "the boy was sent to a transient school, 1910-1912, he was in a juvenile asylum; 1912-1914 he did time in the House of Refuge, for unlawful entry, 1917-1918, he was sent to Sing Sing for grand larceny; 1919-1923, he did another term for burglary."

"The parents say the boy is mentally deficient. They even had a commission inquire into his sanity."

But nothing was done with its findings.

Comforts Father and Mother.

In appearance and bearing Anderson reminds one of a dignified professional student. With his blue-tinted glasses he looks like a high-brow intellectual.

When the newspapers printed stories about his father's testimony convicting him, he comforted his father and told him that he admired him for living up to his oath.

When the jury found him guilty it did so with a recommendation for mercy.

But the New Jersey law says that when a jury brings in a verdict of first degree murder, this verdict shall be death unless the jury recommends life imprisonment.

And the jury said: "Mercy," not "life imprisonment."

So the judge sentenced him to die in the electric chair the week of February 17.

"A fine valentine for me," Anderson said smiling—as he tried to comfort his mother.

But there was no comforting his mother, a gray-haired, feeble, little lady, who is growing feebler each day, worrying, not only about the fate of her boy, but the effect on her husband.

all passed with credit. Two classes are now being organized. The one taking the first unit of the first year will meet during the Sunday school hour. The other class meets on Wednesday nights to study the fourth unit of the first year.

Stereopticon slides and a lecture, "From Alaska to the Antilles," which failed to reach us for January 13, are now here and will be shown at church on Sunday night. Attendance at all services is larger than ever at this season, averaging but little short of 90.

Tribute to Mrs. Gold.

Mrs. Guy D. Gold left this week to join her husband in Hartford, Conn. Sunday was her last day of service as teacher and organist in our Sunday school. In token of love and appreciation, the school gave her a large bouquet of flowers and a $20 gold piece. Mr. Fry voiced a regret that cannot be expressed in a material way. The World Wide guild presented her with a leather card case and bill fold with money enclosed. The memory of Mr. and Mrs. Gold and little Sarah will be fragrant in Meridale for many years.

Personal Mention.

Mrs. E. E. Beavan is convalescing. Miss Irma Smith is staying with her for the present. Many Undergo Operations.

Dr. M. Latcher of Oneonta, assisted by Dr. Tryon, yesterday operated upon Mrs. Rose Hubbel. Mrs. Hubbel has been ill for several weeks. Oneonta Village's four children had their tonsils removed today. It will be remembered that the Viley's had diphtheria last October and have been confined to their home since. Dr. Bartholomew of Cobleskill, assisted by Dr. Tryon, performed the operations. Miss Kenny, the county nurse, aided the surgeons. Much sympathy is expressed for them and it is hoped they will recover speedily and soon be out again.

Recovering from Stroke.

Mrs. Harriet Wade, 55, who has been far recovered from the stroke she suffered at Christmas time and which left her speechless, that she has now partially regained her power of speech.

Lecture Course Season Closes.

The last number of the Lecture course was given in the town hall Tuesday evening by the Rocky Mountain Warblers. A good sized crowd was out, although the weather was cold and windy. Each and every one of the numbers have been excellent this winter and very much enjoyed by all who attended.

Dairymen Consider Local Plant.

A meeting of the Dairymen's league was held in the town hall Tuesday afternoon to discuss the matter of using the local station as a league plant.

Teacher's Children Ill.

Mrs. Ernest Franklin has been unable to do her position as teacher in the seventh and eighth grades this week owing to the illness of two of her children. Mrs. Orville Fox has been substituting.

Personal Notings.

Several from out of town are here trying Regents' examinations. — A few weeks ago Mary Martin fell, injuring her head quite badly and from which she has not fully recovered. She has gone to spend the remainder of the winter at the home of George Churchill.

Canada's Famous Miracle Shrine of Ste. Anne Beupre Rising From Its Ashes a Larger and Finer Basilica

ST
AS IT
REBUILT

What is the present situation at Ste. Anne de Beupre, site of the world-famous shrine on the St. Lawrence, below Quebec, and the famous Basilica destroyed on March 29th, 1922, to which thousands of pilgrims annually made their way? The answer will interest all who have heard of the miraculous cures effected there and all who value Canada's points of historic interest.

The ashes of the disastrous fire had not ceased to glow before an appeal for funds for the new Basilica was issued and negotiations for the preparing of the new plans were under way. These plans were quickly drawn up and approved. They call for a building which will eclipse the old. It will be of combined and modernized Gothic and Roman style and absolutely fireproof, in the shape of a Latin cross of which the arms will form the transept, as in French churches of the Middle Ages. It will have five naves and seven bays like the cathedrals of Paris, Cologne and elsewhere in Europe. There will be two arched chapels at the extremities of the transept and twelve with altars in the great crypt. Altogether the church will contain 26 altars. The length will be 312 feet, the height of the grand nave 85 feet and the superficial area covered about 42,000 square feet, dimensions which compare very favorably with those of the largest European churches. The foundations of this Basilica have now been completed and tenders for the steel structure, as well as for the brick and cut stone, have been accepted and this material is being received. The Reverend Fathers anticipate that the formal blessing of the new building will take place in three years' time and that it will be entirely finished in about five years.

In the meantime, unanimous in the resolve that the sacred shrine must on no account cease to function, they have provided a temporary church which to some extent meets the emergency. A contractor was found who promised to erect in seven weeks a wooden edifice according to plans furnished by the Fathers, and this building was rushed to completion in the time specified. It stands near the ruined Basilica. The length is 184 feet, the width 82 feet, including the eight side chapels, which are eleven feet deep, each containing an altar for Mass and a confessional. The seating capacity is 1,300. To this shrine vast throngs of people still make pilgrimage.

RECLAIMING OF WASTE LAND

Commissioner Macdonald Promotes
More Reforesting Landmarks —
Balance Between Use and Growth
Must Be Preserved.

Syracuse, Jan. 24. — In an address before the New York State Publishers' association, Conservation Commissioner Alexander Macdonald, discussed the remarkable program that has been made in reclaiming waste land by reforestation and the need of concerted activity on the part of all interested agencies in replacing our rapidly dwindling forests if we are to continue to have a supply of lumber and wood adequate to our needs. Among other things he said:

"Our forest resources, until quite recently regarded as inexhaustible, have diminished to the danger point, and this fact is reflected in the prices that we have to pay for lumber and pulp. From 1910 to 1913 newspaper paper, to take an illustration with which you are all familiar, could be bought for $1.30 to $2.10 a hundred pounds, while today it is $3.75, or nearly double. During the war it ran to $12 a hundred outside of contracts, and $5 per hundred was counted a low price. The great bulk of the pulp wood from which our paper is made comes from outside the state, with freight added to the cost, not to mention such other factors as duties and possible embargoes. This condition could be greatly relieved, if not entirely cured, if the 4,000,000 or more acres of land in the state that are suited to growing forests were under forest cover and managed under intelligent forestry principles. The press has a direct personal interest in the reforestation of our waste land. Until we have more forests, we cannot have cheap paper and many other commodities made of wood which are vital in the conduct of business."

"The annual consumption of pulp wood in the United States increased from 2,000 cords in 1870 to 40,000 cords in 1930, 580,000 in 1930, a maximum of more than 6,000,000 cords in 1930, and at least 100 million cords of wood have gone into paper in the United States since wood pulp was first made."

"We must go further than simply reforesting. We must change our whole attitude and plan in handling forest property. Our forest resources have been treated as a timber mine. In the beginning they skimmed off some of the cream and burned up all the rest, and even at the present time the utilization of the tree is only partial, but the worst feature is that not sufficient consideration is given to a plan which has for its purpose the continued forest production of land which is unfit for agriculture."

"In this state we use 1,250 million feet of lumber each year and the consumption is on the increase. Our mills cut about 350 million feet, which is about 25 per cent of what we use. This cut is decreasing each year and there has been a total decrease in our lumber cut of one-third in the last decade. It is estimated that the growth of lumber in this state is about 70 million feet each year. This is about one-fifth of what we cut and about one-twentieth of what we use. You can therefore appreciate what the situation is and what it means when we are cutting our forests five times as fast as they grow."

is this vast area of four million acres which if put under production would grow long ways in producing the wood which we need.

"Twenty years of practical experience have demonstrated that trees can be grown successfully and economically in the state nurseries, and supplied to private owners by the state at an average of less than $3.00 per thousand."

"In the development of our nursery system, experience has taught that a few large nurseries, advantageously located can be operated far more economically than a larger number of small ones, and we are operating three. These three nurseries have been placed in charge of an experienced man who acts as a general foreman. Plans have been made to increase the equipment and raise the output of the nurseries from 10,000,000 trees a year to 17,500,000, and at our present rate of progress this figure should be reached within two years. There are available for planting this year 1,171,000 three-year-olds and 2,500,000 two-year-olds, a total of 3,671,000 trees of all kinds, which is about 1,000,000 more than the number planted last year."

"Last year there were planted in the state in round figures 8,700,000 trees, which was more than twice as many as were planted the year before, and broke all previous records since the reforesting movement began. It was the hearty co-operation of the newspapers that enabled the commission to make that record. The fact that more orders calling for a larger total of trees came from farmers and individual land owners than from any other group of customers, I believe is directly attributable to the constant dissemination of information on tree-planting by the newspapers. Many supporters of the reforestation idea and the results of their co-operation are shown in the increased planting activity in their vicinity."

"It is an interesting fact in connection with the reforesting movement to note that, according to figures given in the Year Book of the United States Department of Agriculture, New York state has planted one-sixteenth of all the trees planted in the United States since the reforesting movement began, and now is planting about one-fourth of the annual total of trees planted in the entire country. The annual area now being planted in the whole country is 25,772 acres. New York state last year planted 1,647 acres, or nearly one-fourth. In other words, last year's planting in New York state is four times as good as the average annual planting since the reforesting movement began, and we are now doing better than we did last year."

To contrast this with the state as a whole, the state as a whole into productive forests that within half a century will have a stumpage value of more than $100,000,000 will add hundreds of millions of dollars to the wealth of the state and to the prosperity of the nation of the highest importance."

Medical Writer Tells How to Keep Well

Nature's Greatest Message, Do You Want Them?

MEMORIZE THIS GOOD ADVICE
THEN TELL IT TO A FRIEND.

Nowadays most everyone realizes that good health is their greatest asset—their treasure—and how to win and hold it has been a constant study since the time of early man.

There are many symptoms, but outside of organic or contagious diseases, probably 90 per cent of our common ailments can be traced to one of two places—the liver or bowels or both. If you suffer from indigestion, headache, dizziness, nervousness or spots before the eyes, if you feel weak, tired, nervous, irritable and generally out of sorts—it's a pretty good sign that your system is clogged with waste matter that is slowly poisoning the blood. And as a result, every complexion, biliousness, rickets and very often kidney or bladder trouble may be easily expected.

A simple, safe and easy way to avoid or overcome the majority of these conditions, but distressing symptoms is to keep the bowels active and regular and in most cases all health of this kind will pass by your door.

In conditions of this kind, a medical preparation of a purely vegetable nature, such as the Favorite Remedy of Dr. David Kennedy, should be of remarkable value. This particular preparation is made from the personal formula of Dr. David Kennedy and has been very successfully used for more than 40 years. Practically all good drug stores carry it, and while it only costs a trifle, even this will be cheerfully refunded if the purchaser is not made satisfied with its use. Adv.
